A LIST OF REFERENCES
TO LITERATURE RELATING TO THE UNION PACIFIC SYSTEM

.....PREFATORY NOTE.....

The titles included in the list of references on the Union Pacific System have been arranged, first by the names of the railroads, as indicated by the Table of Contents, and second, under each road in chronological order, except that reports and other publications which are issued at regular intervals and entries for which no definite date of publication can be assigned are listed first. Entries under the heading "Union Pacific Railroad" include the general discussion of a Pacific railroad which preceded the chartering of the United Pacific in 1862, as indispensable to a proper understanding of the literature relating to the Union Pacific, its financing, and the relations of the Pacific railroads to the Government.

Because of the chronological arrangement an Index of Names is appended to the list.

An attempt has been made to indicate the libraries where the literature included in the list may be consulted, by the use of key letters which are explained in the List of Libraries. It should be stated, in fairness to these libraries, however, that the records of their contents, made by the Bureau of Railway Economics in many cases several years ago, may not adequately represent their present possessions.

Such indications as Poore, Ames, Cat.Pub.Docs., Hasse, mean that the entries concerned are found in these indexes of Federal and State documents and the documents themselves may be seen in such libraries as maintain document sets. The indication "Sale Catalogue" means that a copy of the item concerned was offered at public auction but not purchased by the library of the Bureau of Railway Economics and its location is not now known.

The figures at the extreme right of the entries, such as "18-2467", "A17-2543", or "J.C.5432", indicate that printed cards are obtainable for cataloguing purposes from either the Library of Congress or when preceded by the letters "JC" from the John Crerar Library.

It should also be understood that the list is in no sense definitive; it includes only such material as gets into libraries and may therefore not include literature published by the companies themselves. There is also a mass of legal material involved in United States and State court cases and in the cases before the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Commerce Court, of which occasional pieces, such as briefs and court decisions, occur here and there in general libraries and all of which is, of course, available for consultation in law libraries and general libraries maintaining full sets of state and federal decisions. Material in such collections is not analyzed and recourse must be had to the various legal indexes, cyclopaedias, etc., for references to particular cases.

Union Pacific Railway Government Directors.

Annual Reports. (The Government Directors entered upon their duties in Oct. 1864. The early reports were usually printed as Congressional documents... The reports made in 1864 and 1865 are found in James H. Simpson's report. In 1886 a compilation was ordered to include all reports from 1864 to 1886. This compilation, however, omitted some of the reports for 1866,1867 and 1869, which may be found in Congressional documents (1308-2, special session, Senate) and (1691-180).

No reports have been found for 1870 and 1871. The last report submitted was for 1898, the pecuniary relations of the Government with this road terminating Nov. 1, 1897. 1877-98, in Annual Reports of Interior Department;

Report year ends December, 1880-1883; June 30, 1884-1897.

Title varies. 1880-1881, 1884, have title: Annual Report...

Several issues of reports for 1875, 1895 1896.

Also issued as government documents, with document series note.

Authorities on U.S. documents have repeatedly stated that vol. 3 of this series of Pacific railroad explorations was not printed. The reports which were ordered printed to make up this volume are evidently rare, but they were all printed, in the same style as those of vols. 1 and 2. In the Library of Congress set vol. 3 lacks only the general title-page and table of contents, although the last item is a photostat, made from an original printed copy which is in the Library of the U. S. Geological Survey. It is "Report of the reconnaissance of a railroad route from Puget Sound via the South Pass to the Mississippi River. By Fred. W. Lander, Civil Engineer." This exploration was made by F. W. Lander at his own expense. By a resolution of the Legislative assembly of Washington Territory, March 7, 1854, the report was offered to the U. S. Congress for publication. By a resolution of the House, Aug. 3, 1854, its printing was authorized, together with "the reports of surveys for a railroad to the Pacific." The report was included in the "Contents" of this series, as the last item of volume 3, but it was not mentioned in "List of documents accompanying the Report of the Secretary of War." v. 1, p.42-43. "By a resolution of February 14, 1855, it was ordered to be printed in connection with the reports of the Pacific railroad explorations and surveys." A revision of the report was submitted, July 21, 1856, and was printed, together with the other reports of Doc.129, and much additional material, in "Reports of explorations and surveys to ascertain the most practicable and economical route for a railroad from the Mississippi River to the Pacific Ocean...Washington 1855-61." 12 v. in quarto.

The Library of the Superintendent of documents has now the Parks and the Williamson reports, parts of v. 3.

APPENDIX A.

Early Congressional Debates and Presidential Messages on the Pacific R.R.

U.S. Congress.

[Debates in the House and Senate on projects for a railroad to the Pacific,
1845-1862]

(Congressional globe, 28th Cong., 2d sess., to 37th Cong., 3d sess., inclusive)

B,LC

cf. Indexes under Railroad to the Pacific or Pacific railroad, Army appropriation bills, Homestead bills, Whitney, Asa, and other projectors of Pacific railroads, Surveys for Pacific railroads, etc., also names of individual senators and representatives for their more important speeches on Pacific railroad projects.

Note:- Congressional interest in a Pacific railroad began with Asa Whitney's memorial of Jan. 28, 1845 to the House of representatives, and the report thereon of the house committee on roads and canals in March, 1845 [both listed on p. 10 of this list].

Especially spirited were the debates of the 50s, when both supporters and opponents of any Pacific railroad at all, or a particular "plan" under consideration, seized every opportunity to present their views on the floors of the Houses of Congress.

Among the prominent men of those days to debate on Pacific railroad projects were, Daniel Webster, John C. Calhoun, Hannibal Hamlin, Andrew P. Butler, Wm. M. Gwin, Stephen A. Douglas, Salmon P. Chase, Jesse D. Bright, Sidney Breese, Wm. H. Seward, Thomas Rusk, John Bell, Thos. H. Benton, Sam Houston, Richard Yates, J. L. Robinson, F. P. Stanton, Preston S. Brooks, Truman Smith, D. R. Atchison, David C. Broderick, I.I. Stevens, Jerrerson Davis, C. L. Scott, M. S. Latham, and A. A. Sargent.

The more important speeches are included in this list under their respective authors and years.

A Congress-by-Congress summary, with extracts from important bills and speeches is in John P. Davis's "The Union Pacific railway... "Chicago, 1894, Chapters 1-5, inclusive [listed, p. 150] Practically all the important early speeches and debates are reprinted in "The Great debates of history," edited by Marion M. Miller, (Current lit. pub. co., 1913), vols. 2 and 3.
